Junior new world computer chess champion!!!

10th World Computer Chess Championship - Round 9 (final round)

In the final round of the World Computer Chess Championship all three title candidates made no mistake. That yields a tie for first place between Shredder and Junior. Brutus follows at half a point and gets bronze. A play-off between Shredder and Junior will decide on the title. There will be two games, each with one hour per player per game. If undecided after two play-off games, a sudden-death game will be played with 12 minutes for White and 10 for Black, in which White has to win. In case of a draw, Black wins the title. There will be a coin toss to decide on the colour.

Play-off

In the first play-off game Junior with Black played very strongly and decided the game with a decisive kingside attack. So it only had to play for a draw in game 2 (which is, of course, very dangerous for computer chess programs). In the second game Shredder made vigorous attempts to come through, but Junior defended well, and forced a draw by threefold-repetition. So Junior is the new World Computer Chess Champion! Congratulations to Amir Ban, Shay Bushinsky and Boris Alterman!
